THE SEW SERVICE WINE TO THE

ENNANUEL II. OF ITALY SEES GOOD IN SOCIALISTS' PROGRAMEE.

nservatives Alarmed by His Expressed Belief That Government by the Present Opposttion Might Be Good for the Country -Some New Light Thrown on the Triple Alliance.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. ROME, June 15 .- The young King of Italy is causing concern among the Conservatives who arrogate to themselves the title of Mainstays of the Monarchy" by his evident sympathy with the more advanced political sections. His attitude may revolutionize Italian politics and may save the country from the economic ruin toward which Italy, in the opinion of many observers, is steadily drifting.

King Victor Emmanuel's frame of mind may best be judged by a short conversation which he recently had with a prominent Conservative Deputy, for the accuracy of which THE SUN correspondent in Rome is in a position to vouch.

"I do not understand," said his Majesty "the horror which you Conservatives have for the Extreme Left. I have read the speeches of the members of that party, I have studied their political and social programmes and have arrived at the conclusion that if those men were entrusted with the Government they would do good work for the country. It is true that their programme contains an anti-monarchical plank, but that does not prevent me from appreciating the value of their economic and social policy. If the Socialists oppose the monarchy it is because the monarchical parties regard the Socialists as ipso facto enemies of modern society. I am certain that at the bottom the Socialists do not bother themselves much about the form of government, whether it be monarchical or epublican. They would easily reconcile themselves to a monarchy if the Constitutional parties would take them by the hand and work together for social and economic reforms."

These remarks show true statesmanship and a much broader view of mundane things than the late King Humbert ever displayed. The ranks of the Extreme Left in the Italian Parliament contain statesmen and patriots who might well be trusted with the destinies of the country. Instead they are treated like political mad dogs, and the young King has the courage and sagacity apparently to see this.

The speech of Signor Prinetti, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the Italian Chamber of Deputies last night was a complete climbdown from the anti-Triple Alliance attitude which he maintained from 1891 until the sweets of the office tempted him a few months ago to abandon the principles of his political lifetime. Incidentally the debate revealed the fact of how near the Triple Alliance came to a collapse in the spring of last year. In the course of the debate Signor Marines declared that it was only the personal intervention of King Humbert in March, 1900, that prevented the calamity for Italy of Austrian occupation of Albania. The correspondent of THE Sun asked this Deputy for further information on this point and this is the statement he made:

"I am in a position to declare without fear of contradiction that when Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria went to Berlin last year his real motive was not to honor the Crown Prince on the occasion of his coming of age, as was publicly stated, but to persuade Emperor William not to interfere with the projected occupation of Albania by Austrian troops. King Humbert heard of the scheme and took measures Italian Ambassador to Austria who notified the King of the Austrian machinations. would imperil the Triple Alliance, and, therefore, made no communication on the subject. The secret was discovered by the Prince of Naples, now King Victor Emmanuel, Since his marriage, Victor Emmanuel has made frequent visits to Montenegro, from which place he often went to Albania. He learned to know the Albanians well and to speak their language, and through them be heard of the Austrian intrigues. King Humbert sent the Prince of Naples to Berlin with letters to the two Emperors, couched in vigorous language, and the Prince indersed his father's protests in a speech not less em-

Signor Princiti declared last night that "Austria and Italy are in complete agreement on the Albanian question," which is doubtless correct so far as it goes; that is to say, a mutual self-donying arrangement has been agreed to, but the Austrian now knows beyond the possibility of a misunderstanding that when the Albanian fruit is ripe Italian hands will gather it. The renewal of Austrian intrigues in Albania would unquestionably drive Italy into the arms of France and Russia which are ever outstretched to embrace her.

YOUNG KING'S BROAD VIEW: IN THE UNITED KINGDOM. 41.454.578. epulation of 3.721,656 During the Past Ten Years.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, June 15 .- The first volume of the census returns shows the population of the United Kingdom to be 41,454,578, an increase in ten years of 3,721,656. England and Wales show 78.4 per cent. of the total, while Ireland hows a loss.

The volume chiefly deals with England and Wales, to which alone the following figures apply: Excess of females over males, 1,082,-119 (the war, however, is responsible for the absence of many men). Number of families, 7,045,303; increase in ten years, 917,303; average number of persons to a family, 4.61, compared with 4.73; average inhabitants per louse, 5.19, compared with 5.32. The population of towns is 77 per cent, of the whole. In ddition to London eight towns exceed 250,-00. The population of Liverpool is 684,947. Manchester, 543,969, and Birmingham, 522,-182. The birth rate is steadily decreasing, and so is the death rate. The excess of births over deaths from 1881 to 1891 was 13.97 per cent., and from 1891 to 1901 only 12.30.

The report says: "There has been a diminution in the loss of population by an excess of emigration over immigration to the extent of 601,499. But for the unusual drain on the esident population as the result of the war the loss would probably have been entirely wiped out and a gain established for the first time by the excess of immigration over emigration.

POPE'S VIEWS ON PHILIPPINES. Has Expressed Them to Cardinal Gibbons and Is

Sending a Letter to the President. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. ROME. June 15 .- The pretence that Cardinal Gibbons's presence in Rome has nothing to do with the Philippines is amusing to those who know what is going on behind the scenes. The Cardinal has had many interviews with the Pope and Cardinal Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, and will shortly leave for home, bearing proposals from the Vatican for a settlement of the Church lands question and the position of the religious orders in the Philippines, and also an autograph letter from the Pope to President

The Pope has shown himself to be conciliatory in the matter. He has agreed that there can be no question of Spanish ownership in Church property. All he desires is that the property shall be administered for the benefit of the Church, and he does not care whether such administration be by American religious orders or by the American Government.

SPEAKER HENDERSON IN PARIS. Has an Interview With President Loubet and Visits the Chamber of Deputies.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. Parts, June 15 .- Speaker Henderson, of the American House of Representatives, who is making his first visit to Paris, expressed himself to-day as charmed with everything he saw and with the many courtesies extended to him. The dissolution proceedings were instituted by Attorney-General Davis some time ago, when charges were made that the association, which is a Buffalo concern, was attempting to merge with the Industrial Savings and Loan Association of New York. It also was charged that the officers of the local corporation expended and invested the company's assets for their own personal benefit, permitted loans to remain long in arrears, contrary to rules, and failed to pay withdrawals of shareholders. It also is alieged that the directors of the Buffalo company extered into an agreement with the New York company, whereby the Buffalo men were to receive personal compensation for each share of stock transferred.

PEKIN WILL REMAIN THE CAPITAL Talk of the Court Going Elsewhere Seems t Be Unfounded

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, June 15 - Interest in the Chinese situation centres now in the plans for the payment of the indemnity and the question of whether Pekin will continue to be the capital. The latter is the more generally discussed in London.

Some newspapers express the fear that the Court will never return to Pekin, but wil establish a new capital in the Province of Honan or will continue at Singan-fu. These fears are due to ignorance of the conditions of life surrounding the Court. Singan-fu is in the centre of a district which is afflicted with the worst famine in Chinese history. There is misery on every side, human flesh is publicly sold and children are murdered their parents to save them from worse suffering. While the Court itself has not suffered for want of food, the scenes of horfor and suffering are constantly forced on it, ith no hope of relief of the situation, and for a long time the honesty of the wish of the Court to get away must be unquestioned.

The establishment of a new capital in the Province of Honan is out of the question. because the court does not trust the people of south and central China. It must be remembered that the dynasty is Manchu, and the population of the whole south and centre is Chinese. All the revolutions start there. It can safely be predicted, therefore, that Pekin will continue to be the capital and that the court will return there as soon as the foreign troops leave. Another matter which is worrying England is the announcement that Germany ntends to maintain a garrison in the Yangtse Valley. Englishmen see in this the begin-ning and end of the exclusive sphere of inence. This conclusion does not necessarily follow. France has maintained a garrison at Shanghai and other coast towns r a score of years without damaging British prestige. France is more exclusive than any other nation. At Shanghai, for instance, she maintains a settlement, which she governs exclusively, while the other nations join in the government of the rest of the foreign concessions. The British there are more British there, and will continue to do so, even if a German garrison is established, unless a great increase in the German population follows the establishment of the garrison, which was not true

Mrs. Fairbanks replied gracefully, and in turn presented the wreath to Mrs. John Miller Horton, head of the locat body of the D. A. R. Mrs. Fairbanks innocently supposed that she was doing a thing which would be appreciated by both women, for Mrs. Manning is a sister of Robert L. Fryer whose wife is a sister of Mrs. Horton, but it appears that Mrs. Horton and Mrs. Manning do not speak, and it caused much comment that the wreath Mrs. Manning intended for her successor as President-General of the D. A. R. should thus pass to Mrs. Horton.

REPORT ON NAVAL ACADEMY. Board of Visitors Say the General Management and Discipline Are Excellent.

WASHINGTON. June 15 .- The Secretary of the Navy has received the report of the Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy, through Rear Admiral Luce, President of the Board, detailing the results of the inspection of the Academy just completed. The conclusions are that the state of discipline and general management of the institution are excellent, that the title "Midshipman" be restored and substituted for that of Naval Cadet; that commissions be given cadets immediately upon graduation. Most of the young men are doing duty as ensigns, and there is no reason who they should not have the rank and responsibility. Under present conditions a cadet on his two-year cruise can receive no pension for physical disability incurred in the line of duty.

The board suggests that Admiral Farragut's flagship, Hartford, be attached to the Academy as a practice ship. It is recommended that the swordmaster, A. J. Corbesier, be commissioned Lieutenant and retired, and that John Jarvis, a private marine who has served fifty-one years at the Academy, be rated as a chief petty officer. An urgent recommendation is made that measures be taken to protect the captured flags at the Academy from fire. Academy just completed. The conclusions

SHE'D DIE, NOT GO WRONG: RUNAWAY GIRL FROM MAINE JUMPS

INTO THE RIVER. Says She Is Laura Madden of Lewiston ment, Attempted Betrayal, Starving in the Streets and Siceping in the Parks.

A girl of about twenty-two years, nicely dressed, sat on a bench in Battery Park ear y yesterday morning. She seemed to be in trouble, but the other people in the park did not pay much attention to her. Finally two men whose business keeps them up all night, spoke to the girl. One of them invited her to go and have a drink. She burst into tears. Between her sobs she said that she did not want a drink but that she was hungry, in fact, starving. The men then suggested that she go with them and get something to eat. The girl finally agreed, but just after she had passed the Barge Office with the two men, something made her suspicious and she turned and went back to the bench where she had been sitting. She sat there only a moment. Suddenly she got up, ran toward the sea wall, and climb ing under the chain, crouched as though about to jump into the water. The tug Lewis Culver was tied up alongside the Battery dock and Capt. Dickey and one of the deckhands both had noticed the girl. The deckhand, whose name is Healey, ran to her and turned her around toward the shore. "You get out of this," he said. "Go home Don't do that 'round here." The girl did turn around and started toward Whitehall street. When the deckhand turned his back the girl turned, too, and before he could catch her again she had got under the chains and had Jumped into the river. Healey took off his shoes and went in after her. He caught her as she came up, but when he got her ashore she had fainted. At Hudson street hospital the doctors said At Hudson street hospital the doctors said the girl was suffering from exhaustion as much as anything else, but that she ought to be all right in a few days. She told the police that she had been lured to New York by a man under promise of marriage and that she had succeeded in saving her honor only at the price of wandering about the streets since Wednesday with nothing to eat and no place to size in at the price of wandering about the streets since Wednesday with nothing to eat and no place to sleep.

The girl said she was Laura Madden and that she belonged to a respectable family in Auburn street, Lewiston, Me, where her father was in business. A travelling man, whose name the police got as Frank Rugby, had, the girl said, induced her to start for Boston, promising her that when they got there they would get married and then go back to Lewiston. When they got to Boston, however, he said they had better keep on to New York. They reached New York late on Tuesday night and the man refused then to marry her. He took her, so the girl said, to a hotel and registered with her as man and wife. She saw what he was doing and told him that she had not left her home for that; that he must either marry her or leave her. The man left her. She had no money, and to go home, she said, meant disgrace. So the next morning she set out to wander about the streets and for two nights she slept in the parks without any food. It was when she was approached for two nights she slept in the parks without any food. It was when she was approached by two men in Battery Park that she made up her mind that a girl alone at night in New York was not safe and decided to die. York was not safe and decided to die.

The girl begged the police not to let her people know about her plight, as she felt sure that she was already in disgracs at home and that it would do no good. They telegraphed to Lewiston jast the same, so that if the girl's story was true her parents could get here and vouch for it when she is arraigned in court, and thus secure her release. No one called at the hospital yesterday afternoon to see the girl, and the police decided that it was useless to try and look for Frank Ruyby J.Ewiston, Me. June 15.—There is no Laura Madden, no Auburn street and no Frank R gb/known in this city.

OBITUARY.

Nell Warner the old tragedian, whose real ame was William Burton Lockwood, died at his home, 152 East Twenty-seventh street, vesterday morning, of Fright's disease Warner was born in London 70 years go. He was a cousin of Ouida, the novelist. Nearly all of the male members of his family were clergymen of the Church of England, and Mr. Warner was educated in his youth for the ministry. By chance he met and became a friend of G. V. Brooks, the tragedian, at whose suggestion Mr. Warner turned his attention to the stage. He made his début on the London stage at the Mary-lebone Theatre, and there played a number of important Shakespearlan foles with success. He went to Australia and sturred success. He went to Australia and sturred successfully in the standard drama. In 1868 he came to San Francisco, played across the continent, and on Feb. 20, 1869, made his first appearance in this city at the New York Theatre in the rôle of Othello. He then played at the Bowery, Nibio's, Garden, the Grand Opera House, Wallack's and with Mrs. Conway's company in Brooklyn. While with Mrs. Conway's company he met and married Belle Chippendale, a daughter of Frederick Chippendale, of the famous old family of players. With his wife he went to St. John, N. B., and played a long season in stock. Next he managed, with Eugene MacDowell, the Theatre Royal in Montreal. Later, in partnership with Felix Morris, he managed the Academy. Montreal. He made two visits to California, playing with the famous old stock companies in San Francisco. Finally he cams back to New York under a contract to play four years with Augustin Daly's company. The contract was broken and Mr Warner was engaged to play in "Aristocracy." Subsequently he appeared in support of Kate Claxton. Three years ago he suffered a stroke of apoplexy. He leaves a widow and three daughters. Mrs. E. S. Butterfield. Leonore Lockwood and Aftie Warner. The remains will probably be taken to Montreal for burial.

Gov. Otero Reappointed.

WASHINGTON, June 15 - The President today reappointed Miguel Otero Governor of New Mexico. These was great opposition to the reappointment among a certain political element in the Territory, and the question was brought to a crisis several days ago when the Governor came to Washington to look after his own candidacy. The President also to-day appointed Har-rison Allen Deputy Auditor for the Post Office Department.

MOLINEUX APPEAL CASE. The Court of Appeals Will Hear the Moore

Badger Game Case First. BUFFALO, June 15 -Assistant District Attorney Charles LeBarbier of New York held a brief conference with Chief Justice Parker of the Court of Appeals in this city this morning and as a result the entire programme for Monday's proceedings in that court has been changed. It was the intention to move the Molineux case as soon as court con-

the Molineux case as soon as court convened, but after talking with Mr. LeBarbier, Justice Parker consented to hear the Moore-Mahon badger game case first. A small civil action is still unfinished and final arguments on that must be aubmitted. Then the Moore case will be heard and afterward the Molineux case.

Mr. Le Barbier said that if possible? Assistant District Attorney Osborne will be present at the Molineux hearing in addition to Senator David B. Hill, but that District Attorney Philbin has not arranged to come. The entire case for the prosecution, however, will be in the hands of Senator Hill, and if any of the District Attorney's force come they will assist.

The Moore case is based on the appeal of William A Moore from a sentence of nineteen years in State Prison. He and his wife, Fayne Moore, were arrested on the charge of working the badger game on Martin Mahon, but Mrs. Moore was not convicted.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne says he will not be present at the hearing.
District Attorney Philbin said last night that he hadn't heard of the adjournment of the Molineux appeal case, but that if there

Pennsylvania Steel Company Said to Hav

Paid 38.000.000 for Them. LEBANON, Pa., June 15 .- It is said that the purchase price for the controlling interest of the Cornwall iron ore mines just bought by the Pennsylvania Steel Company was $8,000,000. The sale includes the control of the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad, the Coleman Lebanon furnaces, farms, houses and outbuildings. The railroad is twentytwo miles long and runs to Conewago, where it joins the Pennsylvania Railroad over which lines all the ore needed can be sent to Steelton and other places where the great mills of the Pennsylvania Steel Company mills of the Pennsylvania Steel Company are situated. It is said, however, that all the ore mined at the three hills of Cornwall will be used by the big furnaces here, and by the furnaces that have easements for all time, a few having the right to mine ore at Cornwall "as long as grass grows and water flows." The Lackawanna Steel Company also owns certain rights.

The Cornwall ore beds are probably the largest deposits of iron ore east of the Mississippi. They have been worked for over a century but were developed principally by the Colemans who amassed millions of dollars. Recently the ore banks have been operated by the Cornwall Iron Ore Company, the shares of which have been owned by many people in the United States and Europe, principally by families related to the Colemans by marriage. The ore deposit is practically illimitable and has been widely used in east Pennsylvania blast furnaces.

Police Brase Band in Playing Order. The police brass band projected by Patrolman Clemens of the Twenty-fourth precinct some weeks ago is now in regular practice and its members are thinking of applying to Police Commissioner Murphy for permission Police Commissioner Murphy for permission to serenade him at his summer residence in Far Rockaway some time this week. George A Clemens is the leader and his instrument is the E that bass. The band consists of twenty-type places. Prof. Donato of the Catholic Protectory is the instructor. The band is made up altogether of patrolmen with the exception of Roundsman Wagener of the Twenty-eighth Assembly district, who plays the bass drain.
